Colorful Humanity

(The four primary energies)

A two-day workshop based on 5000+ year old chaturvarna concept of India

5000+ years ago, Sages of India had discovered something extra-ordinary. That there are only four primary energies behind what seems to be the limitless diversity of humanity. They called the four energies as 'chaturvarna' or four colors.

The knowledge of the colors is useful in our lives in many ways. To feel more at ease with the world and to make the world feel more at ease with us. To put an end to the many misunderstandings between us and others in your lives. To bring depth and richness to marriage that we never imagined possible. To provide better guidance to our children. To bring more synergies among our family members. To bring higher levels of collaboration in the work place.

You will get truly 'new eyes' at this end of this workshop. You will realize that the seeming maze of human relationships actually has only four lanes.

Offered by Medha Jananam
