Colorful Humanity

(The four primary energies)

A two-day workshop based on 5000+ year old chaturvarna concept of India

5000+ years ago, Sages of India had discovered something extra-ordinary.
That there are only four energies behind what seems to be limitless diversity of humanity.
They called the four energies as 'chaturvarna' or four colors.
You cannot truly understand human mind without understanding these four colors.

The knowledge of the four colors is useful in our lives in many ways.
To feel more at ease with the world and to make the world feel more at ease with us.
To put an end to the many misunderstandings between us and others in our lives.
To bring depth and richness to marriage that we never imagined possible.
To provide better guidance to our children.
To bring more synergies among our family members.
To bring higher levels of collaboration in the work place.

If you are curious about these four colors, you are doing a big favor to yourself.
You will walk out of this workshop with truly 'new eyes'.
You will realize that the seeming maze of human relationships actually has only four lanes.

Many people who attended this workshop since it was introduced in 2009 has recommended it to all of their family members.
